

RW/02/06/26/JPR – Cosmetic: A new option titled “Faulting” (Figure 1) has been added to the upper tab bar for all programs that may involve faulting.

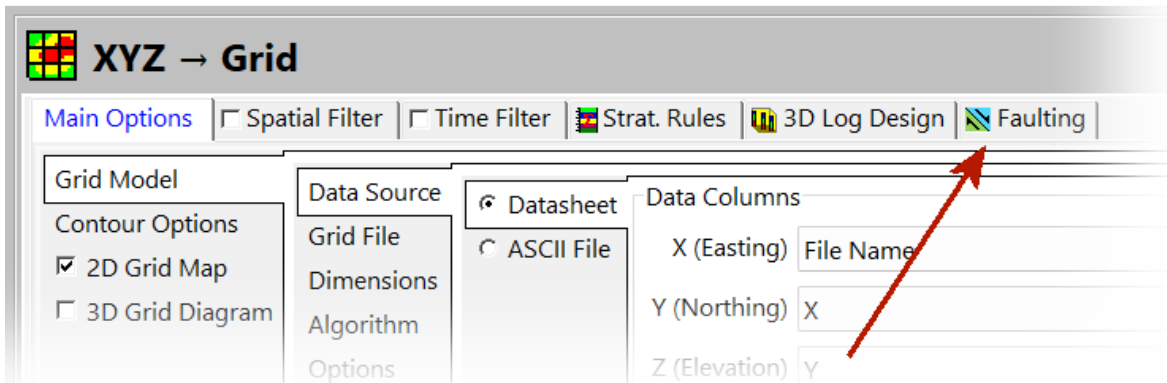

Figure 1

If clicked, various faulting options will be displayed (Figure 2) depending upon what program is currently being used. For example, if the selected program does not involve solid models, the list of faulting options will not include the option to “Use Faults When Interpolating Solid” option.

This redesign centralizes the fault-related options into a single location rather than being distributed throughout the various sub-menus.
